

Chapter 2: Housing

Introduction

Housing is a basic need for all Dane County residents. Housing opportunities and choices determine where we send our children to school, where we raise our families and where we will grow old. Housing also influences traffic patterns and determines our proximity and access to services and jobs. In addition, housing and related industries help drive our regional economy, employing thousands of Dane County residents. As a permanent feature on the landscape, housing is also the most noticeable aspect of Dane County's growth. Housing construction has followed national trends in recent years, peaking in 2004, with 4,742 new units, then dropping precipitously and bottoming-out in 2010 with a low of 1,070 new units constructed. Since 2010, new housing starts rebounded, led by a fivefold (524%) growth in new multifamily units between 2010 and 2013, before levelling off again in 2014. Between 2004 and 2014, Dane County added 12,547 single-family homes, 1,252 two-family units and 16,501 multi-family units. Over the same time period, Dane County's population increased by 51,521 residents, or an annual average growth rate of 1.1% per year.

Purpose

This chapter identifies goals, objectives, policies and programs Dane County can pursue to:

- Provide an adequate housing supply that meets existing and forecasted housing demand;
- Promote housing development in proximity and with good access to transportation and other services;

- Promote a range of housing choices for residents of all income levels, age groups and needs;
- Inventory and assess existing housing stock;
- Maintain, improve and rehabilitate the county's existing housing stock;
- Promote opportunities for mixed-use development;
- Promote compact, residential development that provides efficient service delivery and conserves farmland and open space;
- Promote the availability of land for development or redevelopment of low and-moderate income housing;
- Identify barriers to affordable housing;
- Promote attractive, distinct and diverse communities and neighborhoods, and;
- Ensure that housing needs are met in a way that maximizes energy conservation.

Key Issues

Given the continued demand for housing in Dane County, how can the county:

- Accommodate people of all income levels in good quality homes close to where they work?
- Balance the need to build more houses with protecting irreplaceable farmland, prairies and wetlands?
- Meet challenges faced by the housing industry, including developers and builders?
- Meet the specialized housing needs of our growing elderly and disabled populations?
- Foster partnerships and cooperation among public, private and non-profit housing providers?
- Ensure that housing takes advantage of existing transportation and service infrastructure and that new services are provided as efficiently as possible?
- Provide a range of housing options to meet the demands, including child-care options, of diverse family types and sizes?

Stakeholders

The Housing and Economic Development Work Group (HED) developed the goals, objectives and policies for this chapter. HED members and regular participants included representatives from nonprofit housing advocates, county housing agencies, private landlords, architects, the County Board of Supervisors, the Wisconsin Realtors Association, utility companies, developers, entrepreneurs, large business owners, labor unions, business incubators and others. HED also contributed specific recommendations (including several originally developed for the housing chapter) to Chapter 5: Agricultural, Natural and Cultural Resources and to Chapter 8: Land Use.

Survey Results

Housing ranked highly among respondents to the Dane County Comprehensive Plan Survey. When asked how much attention Dane County government should give to a variety of housing goals, a majority of respondents (actual percentages in parentheses below) felt Dane County should pay “considerably more” or “somewhat more” attention to the following issues:

- Promoting housing that maintains and improves the quality of life for all in Dane County (76%);
- Promoting good use of land for housing (70%);
- Ensuring an adequate supply of enough housing choices that meets the needs of people from all income levels, all age groups, with different family sizes, and families that have special needs (66%);
- Ensuring that there is housing close to public transportation routes (66%), and;
- Ensuring that there is housing close to shopping and commercial centers (52%).

Renters were more likely than homeowners to emphasize proximity to public transportation (36% vs. 28%), choices for income, special needs and family size (48% vs. 25%), and quality of life (52% vs. 35%).

When asked what the most important role Dane County should play to ensure housing for all, the most popular responses included:

- Help to build relationships between developers and local government (36%);
- Improve regulations and zoning ordinances (14%);
- Educate the public on housing issues (12%);
- Buy existing buildings for public-owned housing (12%), and;
- Lower taxes for owners and potential buyers (10%).

Background/Orientation

Since 1998, the Dane County Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) and HOME program has helped residents with low to moderate incomes meet their housing needs. The housing programs funded by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) include the American Dream Down Payment Initiative (ADDI) that provides funding and education for first time homebuyers and the HOME programs. The HOME program includes assistance for the following:

- Construction or rehabilitation of affordable housing (rental and homeownership);
- Direct rental assistance to low-income persons;
- Down payment assistance to qualified persons, and;
- Land acquisition.

The Dane County Department of Human Services (DHS) has a long history of working with county residents that are facing a housing crisis. DHS provides services and funding for programs including mental health counseling, eviction prevention, emergency shelter, housing assistance vouchers and housing counseling. Since 2001, the DHS caseload has doubled.

The Dane County Comprehensive Plan Housing Chapter builds on our existing programs and includes recommendations from the Dane County Consolidated Plan and the Department of Human Services.

However, due to a number of trends including:

- increasing population growth;
- decreasing land supply for residential and commercial development;

- housing costs rising faster than income, and;
- the increase in the percentage of families living at or below poverty,

Dane County has a new opportunity to coordinate, work with and support residents and stakeholders to ensure that housing and communities are planned and created to meet the needs of all residents and communities.

Goals, Objectives, Policies and Programs
